Orientation Program Moves Downtown

The Orientation Program in the Directorate of Programs, Production and Operations, formerly the Cartographic Training School, has been temporarily relocated in downtown St. Louis.

The move to the sixth floor of the Mart Building at Tucker Boulevard and Spruce Street was accomplished without interrupting classes by Supply and Services personnel, Orientation Program staff, and three cartographers from the Geopositional Department, who worked on the Columbus Day weekend.

Section One of Building 4 at 8900 S. Broadway, where the Orientation Program was previously located, is scheduled to undergo extensive renovation during the next two to three years, according to Robert Yorke of the Production Management Systems Branch (PPIM). A large-scale computer for the Geopositional Department is presently being installed. Other work will include new quarters for the Supply and Services Division (LOS), the Publication and Records Management Division (DAP), the Orientation Program (PPIPS) and the tenant Defense Investigative Service.

Military Affairs Group Tours

Members of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association Military Affairs Committee listen to Al Janicik of the Aerospace Center Cartography Department explain the operation of the Automated Graphic Digitizing System. In addition, the group viewed the multi-image mission and products presentation and was briefed on the operation of the Image Manipulation System. They also toured the camera, plate and press rooms of the Graphic Arts Department. Members of the group touring were: MG Herbert T. Johnson, USA Ret., S. E. Freund, William Hunker, Edwin Meissner Jr., George Speer and committee chairman MG Henry Mohr, USA Ret.

scheduled to return to South Annex when its new quarters are completed in mid-1985.

Meanwhile, the nine-week training program for new cartographers and geodesists continues in classrooms that look out on the Arch from the southeast corner of the Mart Building. Two classes made the transition from 8900 S. Broadway and another began Oct. 18. Shirley Eggen, director of the Orientation Program, said two and possibly three more classes would begin before the end of the year.

Instructors in the Orientation Program are employees from production areas, who have been

New DMA Deputy Is West Point Grad

Brig. Gen. William B. Webb, USAF, has been named as the new deputy director of the Defense Mapping Agency. General Webb is a 1957 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and a native of the mid-west.

Born in Chicago, the general spent his secondary school years in Charleston, Mo. where he graduated from high school. In addition to his degree from West Point he holds a master of science degree in international affairs from The George Washington University, Washington, D.C. He is also a graduate of Squadron Officer School and Air Command and Staff College; National War College; and the National Inter-departmental Seminar, and the Department of State Chinese Language and China Area Studies Program.

Prior to his assignment with the Defense Mapping Agency General Webb was the United States Defense and Air Attache to the People's Republic of China.

Following his pilot training in 1958 the general spent seven years of duty with the Strategic Air Command involved in KC-135 tanker operations.

He has served with the Defense Intelligence Agency as an action officer responsible for the operational interface between attache offices in six European countries. This assignment was followed in August 1968 by duty as the Assistant Air Attache to Ethiopia.

In July 1970 the general transferred from Ethiopia to the Republic of Vietnam where he served as plans adviser to the Vietnamese air force's 5th Air Division at Tan Son Nhut Air Base. While there he flew 130 combat hours with the Vietnamese air force in psychological warfare and gunship operations.

Following school at the National War College, General Webb was assigned to the Organization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, J-5, as a plans and action officer responsible for short-range military strategy considerations.

Upon his selection for attache duty, General Webb underwent intensive training including two years of Mandarin language in Washington, D.C. and Taiwan. Upon completion of his studies in

EEOC Report Critical of Complaint Process

Editor's Note: The following article, taken from information in The Government Manager publication is published at the request of the AC EO Office in an effort to keep employees informed of developments in the EEO process.

The federal government's equal employment opportunity complaint process is ineffective and unnecessarily time-consuming, according to an Equal Employment Opportunity Commission report made public through The Government Manager. During fiscal year 1981, federal agencies took an average of 407 days to resolve employees' EEO complaints, at an average cost to taxpayers of $8,000 for each complaint closed. During the same period, the report notes, it took EEOC 145 days to process discrimination charges filed against private employers, at an average cost of $800.

The Government Manager article quotes Thomas Saltonstall, director of EEOC's Field Services, which prepared the report, as saying the system for resolving EEO complaints in the federal sector is an "anomaly in modern civil rights enforcement."

Under current procedures, individual agencies conduct initial investigations of discrimination complaints, which then may be reviewed by an EEOC complaints examiner. The examiner sends a recommendation for resolving the complaint back to the agency. The

The Government Manager include:

Uneven intake-In many agencies, a large number of complaints enter the system that do not belong there. As a result, 16 percent of federal complaints were closed because of rejection, compared with only 3 percent in the private sector.

Few closings through settlements-Agencies closed an average of only 9 percent of their EEO complaints by means of settlements.

Lengthy closing times-When cases were settled, the closings occurred about eight months after complaints were filed, twice the average time of complaint closing in the private sector.

Delays in agency decisions-In situations where the complaint went to the agency for a decision on the merits, the mean time for settlement was 611 days.

Aerospace Center Receives National AFA Award

The Aerospace Center was recognized for its continued support of the Air Force Association when the Ira C. Eaker award was presented during the AFA National convention last month in Washington, D.C.

Accepting the award on behalf of the Center was DMA Deputy Director Brig. Gen. Allen K.

New DMA Deputy

July 1976, he was named United States Air Liaison Officer to Hong Kong. He served there for more than three years before returning to the United States to prepare for his assignment to the People's Republic of China. General Webb assumed the position of United States Air Attache to the People's Republic of China in August 1979 and held that position until he assumed the Defense and Air Attache duties in August 1980.

The general is a command pilot.

ALCM Milestone

The 416th Bombardment Wing, Griffiss AFB, N.Y., passed a major milestone on its way to becoming the first Air Force unit to reach initial operating capability with the air-launched cruise missile. An operational crew from Griffiss launched an unarmed production-model ALCM from a B-52 modified with new offensive avionics systems. Previous ALCM launches from a B-52 were conducted by test crews.

agency can either reject or accept EEOC's recommendation. According to the report, federal agencies almost always accept the recommendation when it is in their favor, but adopt recommendations in cases in which discrimination is found only 41 percent of the time. Dissatisfied complainants can appeal an agency's final ruling to EEOC, and ultimately can take the issue to federal court.

New Prescription Information Sheet In Dispensary

Anyone taking any kind of medication prescribed by a physician should know HOW to take it—but do you? Just following the directions on the prescription bottle or the doctor's instructions may not be enough. Why? Because we all do not know how to interpret properly what the label statement or doctor says.

To help with this problem, the American Medical Association is issuing a Patient Medical Information Sheet on the most frequently used medications. This sheet can be obtained from your physician and should accompany any newly prescribed drug you may be needing. Of course, you should never hesitate to ask the doctor ANYTHING, especially in regard to taking medicine.

A sample of the Patient Medical Information Sheet can be seen in the Dispensary.

Hamrick Completes Advanced Program

The executive director of Toastmasters International, Terrence J. McCann, has notified Aerospace Center Director Col. J.W. Small that John Hamrick has successfully completed the organization's advanced communication and leadership program.

To earn the distinction Hamrick had to complete all 30 projects detailed in two manuals published by the Toastmasters.

A cartographer in the Imagery Analysis Division of the Aerospace Cartography Department, Hamrick is a charter member of the Aerospace Center Toastmasters. Four other members of the club have previously completed the advanced communication and leadership program, according to educational vice president William Mantinband. They are Charlene Gill, Hiram Lloyd, George Peo, and Lt. Col. Phillip Wilder. The club was organized by Colonel Wilder in 1977.

Scott Froidl, son of John Froidl, John's father-in-law Cliff Pelikan, and John's wife Carol. No tagged fish were caught, so there was no prize awarded in this category.

Al Pritchett won first prize for the largest fish caught, a 2¾ pound channel cat, and Richard Rapp won second prize with a 2½-pound channel cat. A prize was also given for the biggest fish caught by a child under 12, and the winner was Mark Froidl, another son of John.

Prizes were awarded for heaviest stringer (total pounds of all fish caught). First prize went to Richard Rapp with 6½ pounds and second prize to Carol Froidl with 5¼ pounds. The family to catch the most fish was the Kastlers, Neal and Mike, who caught the grand total of 76.

In all, everyone enjoyed the derby, and the Civilian Welfare Council thanks all who participated.
