DEFENSE MAPPING AGENCY AEROSPACE CENTER

Vol. XXV, No. 19

September 23, 1983

WHAT IS IT? The reopening of 'A' Lot will add almost 200 parking spaces at Second Street for cars, but that's not all, folks! The abstract sculpture in the middle of the lot (right) is really a bike rack. Recognizing the number of employees who frequently bike to work, officials decided a bike rack could prove useful.

225 Agencies In '83 CFC

Almost 250 key workers have been undergoing training by the Aerospace Center CFC staff and will be approaching co-workers to solicit their support. The Combined Federal Campaign begins here Oct. 3.

Employees will receive from their key worker a copy of the CFC directory for 1983-84. Those who wish to designate a particular agency or agencies to receive their gift will be able to choose from some 225 that are supported by the CFC; each is briefly described in the directory.

The largest number of agencies receiving locally contributed CFC funds are affiliated with the United Way of Greater St. Louis. However, employees can also target their gifts to agencies in four other categories: National Health Agencies, International Health Agencies, National Service Agencies and International Service Agencies.

By entering the directory code number of an agency on their pledge cards, employees can designate up to five agencies to

AGS Dinner Dance

Hispanic Heritage

Dancers from Ortega's Grupo Folklorico demonstrate a Brazilian dance during a program honoring Hispanic Heritage Week here. The main speaker was Manuel Olivares, Hispanic Employment Program manager for the Department of Defense. In similar observances at federal agencies elsewhere in St. Louis, Baltasar Luna, chief of the Aeronautical Information Department's Data Reduction Division, was the speaker.

'A' Lot Nears Completion

Employees at Second and Arsenal with reserved parking spaces will receive new assignments in their Oct. 6 leave and earnings statements. However, the implementation date for the new assignments is dependent upon completion of 'A' Lot and has not been determined, according to Security Office Chief Maj. Allen

Lot parking assignments will go to staff, handicapped personnel and car pools.

Officials are hoping to start paving 'A' Lot about Oct. 1. At least a week will be needed for the asphalt to cure and another three or four days to allow Facilities Engineering personnel to stripe and stencil the lot.

Aerospace Center Director Col. Byron S. Fitzgerald, USAF, has proclaimed Sept. 26-Oct. 1 as Toastmasters Celebration Week. According to William L.

The reopening of 'A' Lot, opposite the northern half of Building 36, will add 199 parking spaces to the present total of 1099 at Second Street. The Lot has been closed the past five months for a lot expansion to make up for spaces lost to the construction of 'E' Wing. All of the spaces lost to 'E' Wing have been restored.

Concurrent with the reopening of 'A' Lot will be a return to "open" (first-come, first-serve) parking on 'G', 'L' and 'H' Lots. With the 225 spaces on 'K' Lot remaining open, as at present, the total number of open spaces under the new configuration will be 408. 'A'

DMAA puts the earliest opening date at about Oct. 11," Major Langston said. "But delays could be caused by a number of factors, including the weather. The asphalt curing process could also be drawn out if we have an unseasonable cold snap.

"When notified by FE that the lot is ready, we will announce implementation of the new parking assignments in the DMAAC Bulletin, via posters, and in the Orientor.

"Center employees are to be commended for their forbearance and patience in the last five months," Major Langston added.

The Aerospace Charting Seniors will hold their third annual meeting and dinner dance Oct. 22 in the Frontenac Room of Le Chateau Restaurant, 10405 Clayton Road.

Festivities will begin at 6:30 with hors d'oeuvres and cash bar, followed by dinner at 8, featuring filet of sole or club steak. Live entertainment will be furnished by the Show Bits.

The cost is $18.75 per person. Please send requests for reservations to the Aerospace Charting Seniors, P.O. Box 31193, St. Louis, MO 63131. Requests for preferred seating will be honored.

LOOKING BACK

TEN YEARS AGO... The Chargers slowpitch softball team left Aug. 29 for the national amateur softball championships in McAdenville, N. C. They gained the trip by defeating another DMAAC team, the Rebels, as well as teams from McDonnell Douglas and Hager Hinge in the Metro Amateur Softball Association tournament, held in Forest Park. Some of the outstanding players for the Chargers, according to manager George Brown, were Lafayette Gatewood, James Williams, captain Livingston Sykes, Noble Ladd, James Bonnett, Albert Walker, James Brannon and Joseph Stitz. . . Issac C. Ropez spent six weeks this summer visiting his parents in the Philippines. Mr. Ropez said he was surprised by the number of people who asked questions concerning Skylab and Watergate. He was also surprised by the progress made in the country since his last visit in 1967. (Orientor, Sept. 7, 1973)

TWENTY YEARS AGO... How the Chart Center is surveying the moon and producing lunar charts will be part of the National Broadcasting Company's news special Oct. 1 on KSD-TV, Channel 5. James Kitchell of NBC News, producer and director of the program, and his camera technicians filmed the Chart Center sequence at its headquarters in St. Louis. A lunar mosaic produced by the Center will provide a background for parts of the program. Titled "Apollo—the Lunar Mission," this hour-long color program will be the first comprehensive TV report on the manned moon mission the United States expects to launch before 1970. (Orientor, Sept. 20, 1963)

THIRTY YEARS AGO... Recommended Reading: Mr. Alfred H. Burton, chief of the Library Branch, has written a very informative history of the ACIC and aeronautical charts entitled "Conquerors of the Airways." The Tech Library has made it available for circulation. (Orientor, Sept. 18 and 30, 1953).

HARRIS-STOWE REPRESENTATIVES HERE... Members of the Harris-Stowe State College administrative and faculty listen as Ken Whitfield of the Aerospace Cartography Department explains the operation of the Automated Graphic Digitizing System. The Harris-Stowe representatives were at the Center to observe cartographers at work and to learn the academic requirements necessary to enter the cartographic field. After viewing the multi-image mission and products briefing, the group toured various production areas. They were accompanied by Gail Penn Evans and Emmett Burton of the Equal Opportunity Office and Dr. William Mahoney, Chief of the Directorate of Systems and Techniques.

receive any percentage of their gift they specify. They can also designate an agency or agencies to receive a portion of their gift and leave the rest undesignated. Of course, no agency need be designated, which means the CFC will apportion the gift.

Employees will be asked to help the Aerospace Center meet its campaign goal of $180,000 but, more importantly, provide help to people in need, help that affects the quality of life for us all.

In the words of CFC director Tom Porthouse, "There's no one of us who can say we will never have to turn to a CFC agency. If these agencies were not here, where would we go?"

of military science at Boston University. His efforts resulted in the successful establishment of military education at nearby Stonehill College.

Capt. Martin P. Hopper Jr., USAF, received the Air Force Commendation Medal, Second Oak Leaf Cluster, for service as chief of the Industrial Engineering Branch, 435th Civil Engineering Squadron, Rhein-Main AB, Germany. "His superb leadership as commander of a rapid runway repair team was a major factor in the high state of readiness achieved by the squadron," the citation said.

TSgt. Gary A. Brooks, USAF, received the Air Force Commendation Medal, First Oak Leaf Cluster, for service as non-commissioned officer in charge of funds management, 18th Supply Squadron, 313th Air Division, Kadena AB, Japan. "Sergeant Brooks' professional skill and dedication produced outstanding supply support to all host and tenant organizations," the citation said.

Fishing Derby Draws Loyal Crowd

by Jim Mohan

Along the bank of the pond, they waited patiently for the announcement. The bullhorn sounded, signaling the start of the competition. Suddenly, fishing line after fishing line sailed through the air. Cast upon cast broke the surface of the once peaceful water. The Annual Aerospace Center Fishing Derby was on.

Drawn by a nearly picture-perfect day, 61 anglers of all ages and fishing skills attended the yearly classic at the South Annex ponds Sept. 11. Each waited in anticipation of hauling in "the big one."

A prize was awarded to the first three lucky "fisherpeople" to catch a fish. Two were from the John Froidl family. John's son, Mark, and his wife, Carol, each received a prize. They were joined by the third winner, Mike Pritchett.

Two members of the Lee Sturm family, Gary and Andy, received a prize for catching the smallest fish. Each hauled in a 2 5/8" bluegill.

The "Silliest Fishing Hat" was also a double award winner. Jake Coibion, nephew of JoAnn Coibion, took first place but he was followed closely by Andy Sturm, who walked away with his second prize of the day.

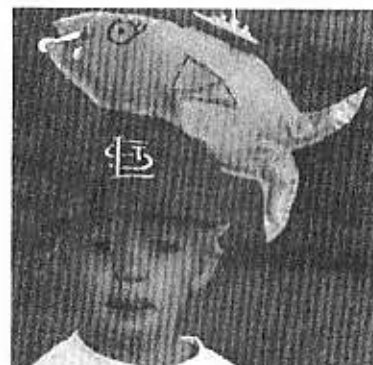

Two familiar names came in first and second in the most fish caught per family category. John Froidl's family reeled in 134 fish, while their nearest competitors, the Lee Sturm family, pulled in 84 fish. Each family received a prize.

The prizes were provided by the Civilian Welfare Council. Derby organizers, Cheryl Moody and Mike Platter, would like to thank all those who helped make the '83 competition a big success.
